Strikes and Discontent Hold Threat of Danger

COURAGEOUS PLAN OF RELIEF MUST BE ADOPTED SOON

PRES. WILLIAM GREEN OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR GIVES INTERVIEW

WISHES PRES. HOOVER TO CALL PARLEY TO FORM NATIONAL ECONOMIC PROGRAM

By THOMAS L. STOKES (United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, July 22.—Strikes and discontent evident in many quarters today as the outgrowth of unemployment hold a threat of greater dangers unless courageous measures of relief are adopted, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor declared today.

In an interview with the United Press, Green repeated his demand that President Hoover call a conference to formulate a national economic program. Only by such means can much suffering and probable disorders be prevented next winter, he believed.

He outlined a program or declaration of principles for this conference, the gist of which is guaranteed security for those now employed, absorption of the unemployed by shortening hours, and no reduction of wages. Restoration of a feeling of security among workers, he said, would lead to buying and would bring a return of prosperity.

"At the present time working people are scared to death," Green said. "They get a dollar and hold on to it."

This psychological situation will continue, he said, until security is assured for the worker.

The head of American organized labor drew a dark picture of present economic conditions and spoke out strongly as to the obligations in this crisis of President Hoover and leaders of industry.

"I've repeatedly recommended that President Hoover call a conference of labor, industry and economists to give consideration to measures to relieve the present situation, particularly to release the buying power of those at work in order to relieve unemployment," Green said.

"Nobody else but the president could call such a conference. Nobody else could assemble the big men of industry."

"I have maintained that it is the obligation of the management of industry to assure those who are now employed of work security and to spread out work and absorb those now unemployed."

"It's a matter of work," he said, emphatically.

"It is the obligation of the managers of industry. They must face it. They must face it even if they have to divide work."

Turning to the things he sees around him which have discouraged and at the same time fired him, Green said:

"Strikes are taking place in many sections among textile workers and coal miners and in miscellaneous industries. All this reveals a situation of social unrest and industrial discontent. In some cities in Oklahoma recently hungry men and women invaded stores and shops seeking food and supplies."

"Mass meetings are being held. Communists are extremely busy mobilizing the discontented. In my judgment all of these incidents reveal a serious state of affairs."

Outlining his program for the proposed national conference, the American Federation of Labor president said:

"There should be, first, a declaration that all who are now employed should be guaranteed that they would be secure in their jobs that no one should be discharged except for inefficiency, that it is necessary to carry out this pledge, industry should adjust its working time so that all would share equitably in work."

"In the second place, the conference ought to pledge industry to reduce the number of work days per week and the number of work hours per week and the number of work hours per day so that those not employed could be given work at the earliest possible date."

The conference, in the third place, should go on record that wages be maintained and that no reductions take place.

"The government should obligate itself at this conference, in the fourth place, to enlarge its building and construction program and in order to do this effectively all red tape should be cut and all unnecessary delay eliminated."

"The conference then should take steps to organize national, state and community forces so that all cases of suffering and need would be cared for this winter."

"These pledges would remove fear and release buying power. Following adoption of these declarations an appeal then should be made to labor to spend to utmost capacity. With work secure, fear would be removed and buying would begin. There would be no reason to stint."

The conference then, Green said, could go into such long-time remedial

SERIOUS RIOTS FOLLOW CHILE'S THIRD CABINET

NEW BODY IS THIRD TO BE SWORN IN WITHIN TWO WEEKS

DEMONSTRATORS SEEK TO DISUADE THEM FROM ACCEPTING POSTS

Santiago, Chile, July 22.—(U.P.)—Serious riots occurred in the streets of Santiago today as Chile's third cabinet within less than two weeks was sworn in at 1 A. M.

The demonstrators sought to dissuade members of the new cabinet from accepting posts in the government formed by Francisco Garcia Gana. They stoned the Casa Del Pueblo and proceeded 2,000 strong to the residence of Miguel Letelier, new minister of interior.

A representation was made that Letelier reject the cabinet post. His name, however, was in the list of ministers given out in the new cabinet, during a hectic night.

Another group stoned the house of Ismael Edwards Matte, liberal party deputy. He is a brother of the new foreign minister, Guillermo Edwards Matte. Windows in the house were smashed.

The mob moved shouting through the streets and was followed by gay motorists in motor cars, adding a festive touch to the demonstration.

The new cabinet, organized after hurried consultations, was formed by Francisco Garcia Gana, who also held the post of finance minister. Others named in his cabinet included Letelier as minister of interior and education; Guillermo Edwards Matte, foreign affairs, commerce, justice and colonies; Hector Baccardo, social welfare; General Chapin, war; and Admiral Marlan, navy.

DISORDERS MARK SEVERAL POINTS OF A TROUBLED WORLD

By United Press

Disorders marked several points of a troubled world today.

In Germany Nazis and Communists clashed at Dortmund with two Communists killed, a Communist and a policeman injured.

Spain suffered from strikes. In Seville, a general strike tied up the city's industry where three were killed. At Dos Hermanas, 15 were wounded when civil guards fired on a meeting of would-be strikers.

A two-day revolt at Corrientes, Argentina, by the military garrison of 500 was reported curbed.

Serious riots occurred in the streets of Santiago, capital of Chile, as the third cabinet in less than two weeks took oath of office.

A student at Ferguson college, Poon, India, fired two harmless shots at the acting governor of Bombay.

Tension was reported in Shantung province, China, where an American missionary doctor was arrested by Chinese contrary to treaty stipulation, after shooting a Chinese whom he thought a burglar.

In Warsaw, Poland, an engineer was arrested on a charge of espionage for Soviet Russia just after a general staff officer had been executed for the same offense.

Violence occurred within the past few days in coal fields of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio.

measures as unemployment insurance. He favors unemployment insurance by act of industry itself through creation of reserves. This could be done by co-operation of employer and employee.

Asked whether he advocated direct appropriations by the federal government for relief, Green replied: "I don't think there will be any choice in the matter. We'll have to call in all agencies to relieve distress."

Navy Department to Use Radium to Detect Vital Weakness in 10,000 Ton Treaty Ships

RADIUM LOCATED DEFECTIVE STERN POST CASTINGS

CRACKED UNDER STRAIN OF BATTLE TESTS MADE RECENTLY

CONTRACTOR BEARS COST $18,000 EACH IN CHESTER AND AUGUSTA

By RAYMOND CLAPPER (United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, July 22.—Concerned over two important defects discovered in its prized 10,000-ton treaty cruisers, the navy department has decided to use radium in detecting vital weaknesses in ship parts such as recently developed under battle tests, it was learned today.

The navy has purchased a half-gram of radium for regular use after successfully trying it out in discovering hidden defects in the stern post castings of five of the eight cruisers of the 1924 program, which cracked under the strain of battle tests recently.

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams says it is not officially determined whether faulty casting or faulty design was responsible. Officers under him attribute the cracks partly to both causes, that is bad design which failed to allow for internal weaknesses in the casting of such huge blocks.

In any event the stern posts are being rep'ced with much heavier ones. In the cases of the Chester and the Augusta the contractor bears the cost of about $18,000 each under the six months' guarantee against defective material.

Naval constructors have also found it advisable to make alterations in all eight cruisers of this group which showed unsatisfactory rolling qualities making gunfire less effective and contributing, according to an officer, to a mishap in which the topmast of the Salt Lake City was snapped off in a high seas some time ago.

The radium is used to detect interior flaws in a steel casting in the same way a dentist uses an x-ray to discover conditions inside a tooth. The radium is placed on the side of the metal and the gamma rays penetrate it to make a photograph on a sensitized plate on the opposite side. Where internal cracks or pockets exist, a dark spot shows on the gamma ray photograph. This method reveals flaws in the more vulnerable and comparatively thin lower portion of the casting.

St. Paul, Minn., July 22.—(U.P.)—H. M. Johnshoy, secretary of the Minnesota rural credits board which is reported facing a deficit of approximately $400,000, may be asked to resign, reports from the capitol indicated today.

Coincident with the rumor, Magnus Johnson, former farmer-labor senator, was mentioned as his successor.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson could not be reached either to affirm or deny the report, which followed revelation of the deficit by C. F. Gaarenstrom, chairman of the board.

Johnshoy was appointed to the post by Gov. Olson, but his work has not met with administrative approval, it was said.

SHOTS FIRED AT RUM CARRIER HIT A STEAMER

MEMBER OF CHURCH PARTY ABOARD EXCURSION BOAT STE. CLAIRE WOUNDED

CHURCH AND FEDERAL AUTHORITIES TO INVESTIGATE INCIDENT NEAR DETROIT

Detroit, July 22.—(U.P.)—Two score of shots fired at a fleeing rum carrier, some of which lodged in the excursion boat Ste. Claire, wounding a member of the church party aboard, were under investigation today by church and federal authorities.

Arthur Gajski, 23, suffered a broken arm when a bullet, fired, he says, by the customs border patrol crew, felled him.

A thousand members of St. Hyacinth's Catholic church watched the chase in which three American boats sought to trap a steel-armored rum-runner's speedboat near Peche Island as it zigzagged through river traffic with a load of 200 cases of liquor and finally drew under the lee of the Ste. Claire for momentary protection.

Hundreds of women and children crowded to the rail of the boat watching the chase as the boats careened madly in sharp turns and flying spray. Suddenly the customs men, witnesses said, opened fire with pistols.

"The first shot struck me," Gajski said, "and I didn't see the rest of the battle."

One of the patrol boats had pulled up to within a hundred feet of its quarry when the firing was resumed. Then panic started aboard the steamer and officers had difficulty preserving order as women and children piled screaming into companionways seeking shelter.

The rummer again changed course and dodged into Canadian waters around a point of Peche Island and escaped.

Capt. Charles Anderson of the Ste. Claire said the rummer was in the down-river channel of the river when most of the firing took place. Excursionists said they had seen no weapons aboard the rummer, but Assistant Collector of Customs Walter S. Petty today declined to admit customs men had shot Gajski.

2 ST. PAUL YOUTHS ARRESTED YESTERDAY AS SUSPECTS ARE RELEASED

OFFICIALS OF BANK CHECK UP THE LOSS AS BEING $6,615

Green Bay, Wis., July 22.—(U.P.)—Police officials said today they had "not the slightest clue" in the search for six bandits who wounded three officers after robbing the South Side State Bank of Green Bay.

Two St. Paul youths arrested yesterday afternoon as suspects at Appleton for identification. They were John Libgott and William Carney, both 18. Chief of Police Thomas E. Hawley and Assistant Cashier Frank V. Supinski of the bank agreed that the St. Paul boys were much younger than any of the robbers.

Libgott and Carney were arrested on a downtown street of Appleton, Wis. They said they had hitch hiked from St. Paul. Police found about $70 in their pockets.

Officials of the bank after a final checkup said the machine gun bandits obtained $6,615 in the holdup Monday.

Detective August Deloye, most seriously wounded in the gun battle with the bandits, was reported to be resting comfortably today. He was shot in the left eye and an operation was performed to remove the bullet from his head.

Hawley and Detective Martin Burke had recovered today from wounds received when the robbers riddled their automobile with machine gun slugs.

HID LIQUOR BEHIND BIBLICAL QUOTATIONS

Ortonville, Minn., July 22.—(U.P.)—Liquor hidden behind such Biblical quotations as "Seek and Ye Shall Find" and "Bless Our Home" was discovered during raids in Big Stone county, federal prohibition agents said today.

August Oestreich, produce store owner, had the liquor cached in the wall behind the quotations, Agents John Niegard and Gus May, said.

Others arrested are: Roy Bogenriff, pitcher for the local baseball team; Mrs. Martin Haana and Mrs. Christine Lucas, Beardsley; Martin Arndt, Clinton; Fred Pumeley and aged mother, Foster, and James Hill, Chris Berg, Ted Finch, Mrs. Kate Heidtke and Cyrus Longnecker of Ortonville.

But Pumeley and his mother will plead guilty at hearings, they indicated.

CONTEST FOR TITLE 'MAN WITH SHORTEST NAME' FINDS 'A. A.'

Chicago, July 22.—(U.P.)—The unofficial contest for the title, "man with the shortest name," appeared definitely ended today with the discovery in Chicago of a man whose name is A. A.

Among the claimants for the title after the death several days ago of H. P. Re at Coldwater, Mich., was C. Ek of Duluth, Minn.

While no contest rules have been adopted, Re's use of initials only has been taken as a precedent, which makes A, whose first name is Aaron, winner by a letter.

ENGLISH GIRL ASKS WINNIPEG MAYOR FOR MAN UNDER 30

Winnipeg, Man., July 22.—(U.P.)—The marriage market opened strong today with at least three bids for the hand of the girl who sent a request to Mayor Ralph Webb from Lancashire, England, for an eligible young man under 30.

One of the men, who lives near Fort Francis, said that he was interested "if she ain't no cripple." He expressed disgust with the modern girl, claiming she drank too much beer.

In her letter, the girl said she was a mill worker and neither danced nor led a fast life.

3 PROPOSALS AGREED UPON BY MINISTERS

3 MONTHS' RENEWAL OF $100,000,000 CENTRAL BANK'S CREDIT TO REICHSTAG

EFFORTS MADE TO HALT WITHDRAWALS PRESENT SHORT TERM CREDITS

By HERBERT MOORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)
London, July 22.—Finance ministers of the seven world powers agreed today on means of aid for Germany.

Proposals to be submitted to a plenary session tomorrow by the ministers' committee, which includes German Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, include:

First, a three-months' renewal of the $100,000,000 central banks credit to the Reichsbank.

Second, the governments to recommend to central banks that they use every possible means to halt withdrawals of present short term credits from Germany.

Third, formation of a committee to examine the possibility of finding later additional short term credits, and also to study the possibility of converting such short term credits into long term credits.

Authoritative non-American sources agreed that the decisions were reached with full accord and that they were as outlined in the foregoing. The second proposal was advanced by Henry L. Stimson, American state secretary.

London, July 22.—A deadlock was feared today in the seven-power statesmen's conference seeking to save Germany from financial collapse.

France was believed blocking desperate efforts to speed up the conference and get action on a practical plan to extend Germany credits.

A meeting of finance ministers was said to have failed to reach agreement on any point. They will submit various viewpoints on the proposed credits at today's plenary session.

In an effort to speed up the conference, delegates decided not to investigate the fundamental causes of the German crisis because it was felt inquiry would take too long. British sources characterized the conference as "now thoroughly under way."

A communique of the plenary session said, however, progress had been made and that certain technical questions had been referred to the finance ministers, who were to report on them at tomorrow's plenary meeting. It read as follows:

"The international conference held a further meeting at the foreign office at 10 o'clock this morning and gave further consideration to methods of restoring confidence on the stability of the German financial position by concerted international co-operation on a basis of a statement presented by the committee of finance ministers."

"Progress was made and certain technical questions were referred to the finance ministers, who will consider them this afternoon and report to the main conference tomorrow morning."

The decisive plenary session of the statesmen's conference began on schedule at 10 A. M., with delegates present from the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson conferred with Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald of Britain, prior to the opening of the plenary.

When the session adjourned at 12:55 P. M., the German delegates indicated that they were more pessimistic than heretofore.

The United Press understood on reliable authority that the French were unwilling to adhere to proposals favored by the United States and Great Britain for extensive of credits needed by Germany.

A feeling not altogether on cohesion apparently was inspired by the French attitude. One report said that if France refused to participate in the credits, possibly Japan and other powers would be invited to collaborate in her stead. This eventually already has been brought to the attention of the French delegation, it was indicated.

The German, American and British delegations were said to favor prompt action, with the closing of the conference tonight or tomorrow at the latest. Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany was particularly insistent that some line of action be decided upon today. He stressed the urgent need of speed in extending credits he said were vital to his nation's economic stability.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, participated in the finance ministers' parley yesterday evening. However, it was understood no definite new "United States plan" was discussed. Chancellor Bruening answered questions on what would be most helpful to Germany immediately.

The ministers conferred for nearly six hours. It was understood they discussed only Germany's immediate situation, with particular emphasis on measures to check the flight of capital out of Germany.

The session was said by authoritative non-American sources to have examined recommendations embodied in a brief report from the finance ministers, dealing entirely with the

SHOTS FIRED AT RUM CARRIER HIT A STEAMER

MEMBER OF CHURCH PARTY
ABOARD EXCURSION BOAT
STE. CLAIRE WOUNDED

CHURCH AND FEDERAL AUTHOR-ITIES TO INVESTIGATE IN-CIDENT NEAR DETROIT

Detroit, July 22.—(U.P.)—Two score of shots fired at a fleeing rum carrier, some of which lodged in the excursion boat Ste. Claire, wounding a member of the church party aboard, were under investigation today by church and federal authorities.

Arthur Gajeski, 23, suffered a broken arm when a bullet, fired, he says, by the customs border patrol crew, felled him.

A thousand members of St. Hyacinth's Catholic church watched the chase in which three American boats sought to trap a steel-armored rum-runner's speedboat near Peche Island as it zigzagged through river traffic with a load of 200 cases of liquor and finally drew under the lee of the Ste. Claire for momentary protection.

Hundreds of women and children crowded to the rail of the boat watching the chase as the boats careened madly in sharp turns and flying spray. Suddenly the customs men, witnesses said, opened fire with pistols.

"The first shot struck me," Gajeski said, "and I didn't see the rest of the battle."

One of the patrol boats had pulled up to within a hundred feet of its quarry when the firing was resumed. Then panic started aboard the steamer and officers had difficulty preserving order as women and children piled screaming into companionways seeking shelter.

The rummer again changed course and dodged into Canadian waters around a point of Peche Island and escaped.

Capt. Charles Anderson of the Ste. Claire said the rummer was in the down-river channel of the river when most of the firing took place. Excursionists said they had seen no weapons aboard the rummer, but Assistant Collector of Customs Walter S. Petty today declined to admit customs men had shot Gajeski.

Deposit Wheat in Place of Cash in Spanish Banks

Lisbon, Portugal, July 22.—(U.P.)—Wheat is being deposited in banks in place of cash in the province of Alemtejo today.

Due to a shortage of paper currency, the agricultural credit bank in Alemtejo province announced it would accept deposits of wheat of equal value.

SCENE OF TEXAS-OKLAHOMA BRIDGE QUARREL

A modern Horatio, Adj. Gen. W. W. Sterling of Texas (in white trousers), says: "They shall not pass," and he backs up his statement with the rifle he is holding to prevent motorist from using a free bridge over the Red River, connecting Oklahoma and Texas. Governor Murray of Oklahoma has ordered the bridge opened, but a federal judge granted an injunction sought by the receivers of a company operating toll bridges over the river, and Texas officials are determined the free bridge shall not be used.

FUTILE ATTEMPT MADE TO MURDER BOMBAY GOVERNOR

Bombay, India, July 22.—(U.P.)—A futile attempt was made today to assassinate Sir John Hotson, acting governor of Bombay. A student of Ferguson college at Poon fired two shots at Hotson, but missed.

NOT A CLUE ON MOVEMENT OF THE GREEN BAY BANDITS

2 ST. PAUL YOUTHS ARRESTED
YESTERDAY AS SUSPECTS ARE RELEASED

OFFICIALS OF BANK CHECK UP
THE LOSS AS BEING
$6,615

Green Bay, Wis., July 22.—(U.P.)—Police officials said today they had "not the slightest clue" in the search for six bandits who wounded three officers after robbing the South Side State Bank of Green Bay.

Two St. Paul youths arrested yesterday afternoon as suspects at Appleton for identification. They were John Libgott and William Carney, both 18.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Hawley and Assistant Cashier Frank V. Supinski of the bank agreed that the St. Paul boys were much younger than any of the robbers.

Libgott and Carney were arrested on a downtown street of Appleton, Wis. They said they had hitch hiked from St. Paul. Police found about $70 in their pockets.

Officials of the bank after a final checkup said the machine gun bandits obtained $6,615 in the holdup Monday.

Detective August Delye, most seriously wounded in the gun battle with the bandits, was reported to be resting comfortably today. He was shot in the left eye and an operation was performed to remove the bullet from his head.

Hawley and Detective Martin Burke had recovered today from wounds received when the robbers riddled their automobile with machine gun slugs.

It read as follows:

HID LIQUOR BEHIND BIBLICAL QUOTATIONS

Ortonville, Minn., July 22.—(U.P.)—Liquor hidden behind such Biblical quotations as "Seek and Ye Shall Find" and "Bless Our Home" was discovered during raids in Big Stone county, federal prohibition agents said today.

August Oestreich, produce store owner, had the liquor cached in the wall behind the quotations, Agents John Niegaard and Gus May, said.

Others arrested are: Roy Bogenruff, pitcher for the local baseball team; Mrs. Martin Haana and Mrs. Chris Lucas, Beardsley; Martin Arndt, Clinton; Fred Pumeley and aged mother, Foster, and James Hill, Chris Berg, Ted Finch, Mrs. Kate Heidtke and Cyrus Longnecker of Ortonville.

All but Pumeley and his mother will plead guilty at hearings, they indicated.

The decisive plenary session of the statesmen's conference began on schedule at 10 A. M., with delegates present from the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson conferred with Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald of Britain, prior to the opening of the plenary.

When the session adjourned at 12:55 P. M., the German delegates indicated that they were more pessimistic than heretofore.

The United Press understood on reliable authority that the French were unwilling to adhere to proposals favored by the United States and Great Britain for extensio of credits needed by Germany.

A feeling not altogether on cohesion apparently was inspired by the French attitude. One report said that if France refuses to participate in the credits, possibly Japan and other powers would be invited to collaborate in her stead. This eventually already has been brought to the attention of the French delegation, it was indicated.

The German, American and British delegations were said to favor prompt action, with the closing of the conference tonight or tomorrow at the latest. Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany was particularly insistent that some line of action be decided upon today. He stressed the urgent need of speed in extending credits he said were vital to his nation's economic stability.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, participated in the finance ministers' party yesterday evening. However, it was understood no definite new "United States plan" was discussed. Chancellor Bruening answered questions on what would be most helpful to Germany immediately.

The ministers conferred for nearly six hours. It was understood they discussed only Germany's immediate situation, with particular emphasis on measures to check the flight of capital out of Germany.

The session was said by authoritative non-American sources to have examined recommendations embodied in a brief report from the finance ministers, dealing entirely with the

ENGLISH GIRL ASKS WINNIPEG MAYOR FOR MAN UNDER 30

Winnipeg, Man., July 22.—(U.P.)—The marriage market opened strong today with at least three bids for the hand of the girl who sent a request to Mayor Ralph Webb from Lancashire, England, for an eligible young man under 30.

One of the men, who lives near Fort Francis, said that he was interested "if she ain't no cripple." He expressed disgust with the modern girl, claiming she drank too much beer.

In her letter, the girl said she was a mill worker and neither danced nor led a fast life.

7,600 MILE MOTOR ENJOYED BY PAIR

Misses Michael and Adair Return
From Tour of Southwest;
Decide Minnesota Best

Minnesota remains as the ideal state of the union to the Misses Eula Michael, city nurse, and Marie A. Adair, teacher at the Riverside school, as they reviewed today their trip to the southwest, covering 7600 miles by motor.

The two Brainerdites returned Tuesday afternoon plus becoming coats of tan and memories of delightful experiences.

"It was great to get back and see again Minnesota's lakes and trees," Miss Michael said adding however, "if we only had a mountain in Crow Wing county this would be perfect."

The Misses Michael and Adair were six weeks in travelling and visiting relatives and friends. Miss Michael was a guest at the home of her brother H. F. Michael and his family at Phoenix, Ariz., while Miss Marie visited her friend, Miss Ruth Moody at Los Angeles. They travelled the southern route in going and returned by way of the Yosemite National Park. "We didn't have any trouble at all. We just came through sailing," Miss Michael said.

The city nurse reported for the benefit of her brother's and his family's many friends here that they were doing well in Arizona. Mr. Michael is a former alderman and merchant of this city and is now engaged in citrus growing.

While in Phoenix Miss Michael met the Misses Emily Mraz, her sister, Leah Miller and Mrs. Alta Hoiden, Brainerd, who are on a vacation tour. Other Brainerd people met on the trip were the Misses Elsie Schwabe and Sigrid Stendal at Santa Fe, N. M.

While driving on a San Francisco street a motorist shouted to them "What part of Minnesota are you from?"

"Brainerd."

The next question was "Do you know Cal Orth?"

Harmony Four Enjoy Outing at Gull Lake Home of John M. Bye

The Harmony Four held their annual outing last evening at the John M. Bye cottage on Gull Lake. A chicken dinner was served, after which the Harmony Four sang a number of selections for Donald R. Johnson and family, who are occupying the Bye cottage.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a lovely boat trip around the lake.

Those taking part in the outing were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mraz, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Bredenberg, Miss Hannah Bye, Mrs. Nettie Temple the accompanist, and John M. Bye.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Johnson of St. Paul, parents of Donald Johnson, arrived yesterday to spend the week end with their son, and were guests at the cottage last evening.

Mrs. Mabel H. Clarkson Brings Home
Injured Son, Lee Clarkson,
From St. Paul

Mrs. Mabel H. Clarkson returned Monday morning from Minneapolis bringing her son, Lee Clarkson who was injured in an automobile accident at Minneapolis on Sunday, July 12. He has been there receiving treatment for his injuries since that time, having been more seriously hurt than was at first anticipated. Lee had gone to register on July 11 with the 135th Infantry band where he expects to play at Camp Ripley the first two weeks in August.

Mr. Risberg and son Charles, who were also victims in the auto accident, together with his daughters Ruth and Betty, accompanied Mrs. Clarkson and son home and are guests at the home of Mrs. H. Emma Hallett, Main street. The Risbergs are former residents of Brainerd, and will be remembered by many friends. Mr. Risberg was on the police force for several years, and was a widely known trap drummer and xylophone player.

J. HERSCHEL HARDY BUYS NEW HOTEL

Knight Hotel of Ashland, Wis., Is Added to His String of 12 Hotels
Throughout Country

J. Herschel Hardy, hotel magnate of Oelwein, Ia., has bought the Knight hotel of Ashland, Wis. The new owner of the hotel is at present the owner of 12 hotels and also conducts a stock and bond business in Chicago. His hotels are located as follows: Phelps Hotel at Greenville, Mich.; Western Hotel, Big Rapids, Mich.; Bartlett Hotel of Junction City, Kans.; Hildreth Hotel of Charles City, Ia.; Monham Hotel of Clay Center, Kans.; Woods Hotel, Quincy, Ill.; Wright House, Alma, Mich.; Ransford Hotel, Brainerd; Iron Inn at Iron River, Mich.; and several other buildings and hotels.

Mr. Hardy is known in business circles as the 29 year old millionaire. Ten years ago he was a circulation promoter on the Wichita, Kansas, Beacon. Today he is rated as a millionaire interested in a number of business. Besides his small town hostilities, Mr. Hardy is interested in the book publishing business and is an officer of the stock and bond company of Meyer-Hardy and Company of Chicago, Ill. He is a member of the Association of Commerce of Chicago as well as other civic organizations there. He has been in the hotel business for the past six years but does not operate any of the hotels himself. He either leases them or employs managers. In the case of the Knight Hotel he will employ managers. J. T. Kendrigan, present manager is to remain in charge for the present Mr. Hardy said today.

COMMUNITY WANTS MORE REFINED NAME

Objection Raised to Name "Pumpkin Center" at Indignation Meet;
"Nokaysippi Favored"

The name "Pumpkin Center" may be relegated to the past if the majority of residents of that section of Crow Wing county have their way about it. At an indignation meeting last evening farmers and their families highly objected to the name and expressed themselves in favor of a new and more becoming name to their prosperous, up and coming community.

"We refuse to be called pumpkin heads just because we have one cabbage head among us," one objector said.

The indignant resident asserted that the "cabbage head" tagged the name of Pumpkin Center to the community. "Pumpkin Center is not a fit name for any place."

This and many other objections were made as to the name. The consensus of the meeting was that the community receive one of three names: Nokaysippi, South 13th, Daggett Brook Store Community.

While no official vote was taken Nokaysippi appeared as the more popular name. A petition may be circulated among the 20 families to ascertain their wishes in the matter.

The community is located eight miles south on 13th street and covers parts of four townships, St. Mathias, Crow Wing, Daggett Brook and Long Lake.

The residents receive their mail through Brainerd Route 1.

VARIATIONS IN COFFEE FLAVOR LAID TO BULK ROASTING

Hills Bros. Coffee Doesn't Vary in Flavor, Because of Radically Different Process

It is almost impossible to keep bulk-roasted coffee from varying in flavor. For in bulk roasting it is difficult to roast each big batch alike. One lot may be slightly overdone—another a little underdone. Naturally, they each have a different flavor.

Hills Bros. discarded the bulk method for a process they invented and patented. It is called Controlled Roasting, and the roast is positively controlled. Variation is overcome. Every pound of Hills Bros. Coffee has the same rich, full-bodied flavor.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow—a little at a time—so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. No other process is like it. That's why Hills Bros. Coffee has a flavor no other coffee has.

Hills Bros. pack their coffee in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Colonel Ivan Bowen Meets Brainerd Citizens

COLONEL IVAN BOWEN, regimental commander at Camp Ripley, accompanied by Captain A. C. Amann, was in the city yesterday visiting city officials and others and also paying a short visit to the Dispatch office.

The encampment of the 205th Infantry opened Sunday evening. Col. Bowen has made tentative arrangements to have the infantry band from New Ulm, directed by Benjamin Kitzberger, play in Brainerd. Such a cordial reception was accorded the two bands of the artillery corps some weeks ago that all are assured a like interest will be manifested in the infantry band.

Colonel Bowen was very anxious that the soldiers make a good impression wherever they visit. In his address to his men at the opening of their camp, he urged the complete adoption of the training schedule.

"You are in a new area, affected by entirely different circumstances. Bear in mind, you're in the army now, and in order that this regiment might derive the greatest amount of gain from the encampment it is necessary that you assume a strict military frame of mind to function properly. In order that this regiment may continue to be one of the outstanding military organizations in the state two things are of vital importance, military discipline and your personal appearance.

"This is the first time that the majority of you men have come into this part of the state and it is a matter of concern that you leave only the best impression with the people in this part of the state.

"I wish to call your attention to the new camp site, which has been made possible through the untiring efforts of General Ellard A. Walsh, through whose work this camp has become a reality. You are urged to preserve the property that you find here in order that additional funds may be secured to enlarge and further develop this new camp site."

Parking Cars in Fergus Falls

THE yellow stripes that separate cars when they park at Fergus Falls appear to be too closely marked for comfort. An argument set forth in the Journal of that town records the assertion of Olaf Tommerdahl that he did not fix the angle, but painted the lines in accordance with the plans furnished.

Elmer Adams is claimed to say that Roy Hintgen was right in criticizing the angle. Mr. Adams continues: "Yesterday two quite fleshy women—a little heavier than Chief Allen Johnson—came to town to trade. After a good deal of maneuvering, they got their car in between two the Tommerdahl yellow stripes. They shut off their power, opened the doors of their car and tried to get out. They could not squeeze through the opening because the doors hit the cars on either side. They argued as to what was the best to do. One suggested they back out and dismount in the street. The other one wanted to know how they could get the car in between the stripes when they were not in the car. One suggested that they might get behind it and push it in, but how could they get in to back it out? They decided to ask the Lady from Philadelphia who said, 'Why don't you stay in your car, back it out, and go to Foxhome to trade, where there is plenty of parking space'."

The whole argument seems funny, but just as soon as it begins to affect trade, Fergus Falls will widen the distance between its parking stripes.

Here in Brainerd the angle is good and the parking space provided is comfortable. But parking space in the business section grows at a premium on big trading days on Saturday, etc. That is something that should be attended to and more space may be given the customers if store owners, clerks and many other employees will park near by or on lots and leave streets in the business section for the customers. No farmer or tourist likes to carry his packages several blocks to his car.

Minnesota's Export Trade

EXPORTS of merchandise from Minnesota were valued at $32,328,954 during 1930 compared with $51,649,147 the previous year, according to statistics made public today by the Department of Commerce.

Wheat ranked first in value among the state's exports during the twelve-month period amounting to $6,907,482 compared with $10,990,556 during 1929, and was followed in order by lard and neutral lard, $4,398,680 and $5,353,462; wheat flour, $2,520,626 and $3,656,579; and machinery and parts (except agricultural), $2,095,405 and $2,310,106.

Other leading exports, with comparative values for 1929, were: cured hams and shoulders, $1,458,161 and $2,038,329; wheel tractors, $1,197,846 and $1,868,055; "other agricultural machinery" $1,124,950 and $1,415,447; bacon, $984,943 and $1,113,538; and "other wood and paper," $935,152 and $874,512.

Colonel Ivan Bowen Meets Brainerd Citizens

COLONEL IVAN BOWEN, regimental commander at Camp Ripley, accompanied by Captain A. C. Amann, was in the city yesterday visiting city officials and others and also paying a short visit to the Dispatch office.

The encampment of the 205th Infantry opened Sunday evening. Col. Bowen has made tentative arrangements to have the infantry band from New Ulm, directed by Benjamin Kitzberger, play in Brainerd. Such a cordial reception was accorded the two bands of the artillery corps some weeks ago that all are assured a like interest will be manifested in the infantry band.

Colonel Bowen was very anxious that the soldiers make a good impression wherever they visit. In his address to his men at the opening of their camp, he urged the complete adoption of the training schedule.

"You are in a new area, affected by entirely different circumstances. Bear in mind, you're in the army now, and in order that this regiment might derive the greatest amount of gain from the encampment it is necessary that you assume a strict military frame of mind to function properly. In order that this regiment may continue to be one of the outstanding military organizations in the state two things are of vital importance, military discipline and your personal appearance.

"This is the first time that the majority of you men have come into this part of the state and it is a matter of concern that you leave only the best impression with the people in this part of the state.

"I wish to call your attention to the new camp site, which has been made possible through the untiring efforts of General Ellard A. Walsh, through whose work this camp has become a reality. You are urged to preserve the property that you find here in order that additional funds may be secured to enlarge and further develop this new camp site."

Parking Cars in Fergus Falls

THE yellow stripes that separate cars when they park at Fergus Falls appear to be too closely marked for comfort. An argument set forth in the Journal of that town records the assertion of Olaf Tommerdahl that he did not fix the angle, but painted the lines in accordance with the plans furnished.

Elmer Adams is claimed to say that Roy Hintgen was right in criticizing the angle. Mr. Adams continues: "Yesterday two quite fleshy women—a little heavier than Chief Allen Johnson—came to town to trade. After a good deal of maneuvering, they got their car in between the two Tommerdahl yellow stripes. They shut off their power, opened the doors of their car and tried to get out. They could not squeeze through the opening because the doors hit the cars on either side. They argued as to what was the best to do. One suggested they back out and dismount in the street. The other one wanted to know how they could get the car in between the stripes when they were not in the car. One suggested that they might get behind it and push it in, but how could they get in to back it out? They decided to ask the Lady from Philadelphia who said, 'Why don't you stay in your car, back it out, and go to Foxhome to trade, where there is plenty of parking space'."

The whole argument seems funny, but just as soon as it begins to affect trade, Fergus Falls will widen the distance between its parking stripes.

Here in Brainerd the angle is good and the parking space provided is comfortable. But parking space in the business section grows at a premium on big trading days on Saturday, etc. That is something that should be attended to and more space may be given the customers if store owners, clerks and many other employees will park near by or on lots and leave streets in the business section for the customers. No farmer or tourist likes to carry his packages several blocks to his car.

Minnesota's Export Trade

EXPORTS of merchandise from Minnesota were valued at $32,328,954 during 1930 compared with $51,649,147 the previous year, according to statistics made public today by the Department of Commerce.

Wheat ranked first in value among the state's exports during the twelve-month period amounting to $6,907,482 compared with $10,990,556 during 1929, and was followed in order by lard and neutral lard, $4,398,680 and $5,353,462; wheat flour, $2,520,626 and $3,656,579; and machinery and parts (except agricultural), $2,095,405 and $2,310,106.

Other leading exports, with comparative values for 1929, were: cured hams and shoulders, $1,458,161 and $2,038,329; wheel tractors, $1,197,846 and $1,868,055; "other agricultural machinery" $1,124,950 and $1,415,447; bacon, $984,943 and $1,113,538; and "other wood and paper," $935,152 and $874,512.

Fresh pork, sausage casings, oleo oil, hides and skins, undressed furs, barley, malt and corn, textiles, wood manufactures, coal, coke, refined petroleum oils, abrasive paper and cloth, iron ore, vehicles and parts, and chemicals and related products were included among the products sent from the state to foreign countries during the year.

IF WALKER IS DEFEATED TONIGHT, LAST OF OLD GUARD GOES

MICKEY IS LAST SURVIVING LINK WITH THE PAST

WALKER ASCENDED THE WELTERWEIGHT THRONE BACK IN 1922

HANDSOME SHARKEY HAS FEW MARKS TO SHOW FOR HIS MANY BATTLES

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, July 22.—If Edward Patrick Walker—sometimes called Mickey—is knocked kicking by Jack Sharkey tonight the last of what might be called the "Old Guard" will have been rubbed off the boxing landscape.

For Mickey, even though he just turned 30 a few days ago, is the last surviving link between the present and those good old days when champions were champions and had enough color to paint a two-story house.

If you don't think Mickey is an old-timer at 30 take a look at the men who were champions when Mickey ascended the welterweight throne in 1922.

Jack Dempsey was in his prime and ruled the heavyweight division with his weaving, bobbing crouch and a left hand that exploded like a depth bomb. Battling Siki, who later was to die in a gutter with a knife, hit deep in his back, was the light heavyweight boss. The coal black Senegalese fairly dripped color, whether sliding along the ropes or strutting the streets with his pet leopard cub.

Johnny Wilson was the middleweight ace, while the junior welterweight group was watched over by Pinkey Mitchell. Both these men long ago hung up their gloves.

The greatest of all the lightweights, cunning, shifty and hitting Benny Leonard had not yet thought of retiring, while Johnny Dundee, one of the ring's new genuine "iron men" was on top of the junior lightweight heap.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight, Joe Lynch, bantamweight, and Pancho Villa, flyweight, who died as he lived, by the ring, completed the list of champions when Walker first reached the top.

Contrast the champions of today—Schmeling, Rosenbloom, Thompson, Canzoneri, Battalio and the rest—with those boys of 1922 and then say Walker has no right to boast of the "good old days."

Walker's "ancestry," however, will not win for him tonight. The Mick is a brawling, hell-to-leather sort of fighter, with a heart as big as a grand-father's clock, but no fighter alive is going to spot the Sharkey man some 30 pounds in weight, and many inches in height and reach and beat him. That's out on a limb and we'll sit on it.

The two fighters, by the way, are as different types as any two scrappers you can name offhand. Walker, battle-browed, underslung, thick-lipped, pug-nosed and with a neck like the trunk of a redwood, looks like what the novelists would have us believe all fighters look. Mickey likes his fun straight and is not particular where he finds it.

Sharkey, handsome, and looking like nothing so much as he does a well-to-do business man (that's exactly what he is) has few marks to show for his many battles. The former sailor is strictly a family man and while the echo of the final bell rings in the rafters is off for Boston and his home. There he stays until the next fight.

Tonight's bout is the first "American heavyweight championship" fight since boxing gloves were introduced as a substitute for bare knuckles. Way back in 1880 one Paddy Ryan became the first American to hold the world's title by knocking out Joe Goss of England in the 87th round of a knuckle-to-knuckle engagement. Since that time the heavyweight crown stayed in this country until Max Schmeling.

Schmeling's triumph forced the promoters to invent the "American championship" gag to draw the customers through the gate.

OBSOLETE JAPANESE AMATEUR ASTRONOMER DISCOVERS A COMET

Pasadena, Calif., July 22.—(U.P.)—An obscure, amateur Japanese astronomer, M. Nagata, of Brawley, Calif., has discovered a new comet in the heavens. It was announced today at the Mt. Wilson observatory.

The comet was described to be in the constellation of Leo, not far from the star Rho Leonis, and in the general direction of Mars, although about ten degrees to the right of that planet.

The comet will be named after Nagata, who called it to the attention of the Mt. Wilson scientists in an apologetic telegram in which he begged pardon for wasting their time but asked if it was possible for him to have located a new comet with his small telescope.

Let Contracts for Camp Arsenal by Monday

St. Paul, July 22.—(U.P.)—Contracts for the arsenal at Camp Ripley, near Little Falls, probably will be let by Monday, Adjutant General E. A. Walsh said today. Bids were received yesterday from 15 general contractors, seven plumbing and heating firms and four electrical companies.

FRANK 'LEFTY' O'DOUL SHOWS HE'S STILL IN RUNNING

Can Bambino Hold Home Run Throne?

If there's one thing that a baseball fan loves more than another, it is to see a ball get smacked straight on the nose and sent for a non-stop hop right out of the park. That is one of the big reasons for Babe Ruth's immense popularity. But this season the Bambino isn't having things all his own way. He is being hard pressed for the fence-busting honors. At the time of writing, Gehrig, his teammate of the Yankees, is leading him in circuit wallpops, as is Chuck Klein, of the Phillies. Jimmy Foxx, of Connie Mack's Athletics, is also in the race, an opponent not to be lightly dismissed, while Averill, of the Cleveland Indians, gives indications that he is due to be heard from. Times are hard for kings and even Kings of Swat have their ups and downs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ott Jordan and little daughters and Mrs. Carl Jordan attended a shower in Brainerd Thursday afternoon.

The heat wave has helped the grain to ripen quickly and people are busy harvesting.

Miss Mildred Hellen and a girl friend were around this week taking up subscription for the Farmer Wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Gaboury were visitors at the Earl Flansburg home Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schagel and son Edward visited relatives in Brainerd Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jordan, Mrs. Charles Jordan and little daughter of Brainerd visited at the Jordan home Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McConnos and children of Brainerd, the Misses Lucille and Edna Erickson of Duluth visited at the G. Koering home Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Koering visited at the Adam Taugtes home Friday evening to help Alex Taugtes celebrate his birthday.

Mrs. Sofia Koering visited in St. Cloud the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ott Jordan and Mrs. D. Wickman and J. Wickman and Henry Wickman called at the St. Joseph hospital Monday to see John Wickman who is sick.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tautges, Mrs. Martin Tautges motored to Backus Sunday.

MERRIFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ludlow and family of Brainerd spent Monday at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pratt and family left Thursday for the northern part of Minnesota blue berrying.

The Merrifield ladies club are holding a food and clothing sale at the Merrifield school house Saturday, July 25. Following in the evening there will be a dance, good music. Every one invited to attend.

Merrifield and Brainerd played a ball game here Sunday, Merrifield losing by a few scores.

The dance given at Bolin's Ranch was not very well attended last Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Olsen of St. Paul spent the week end at their cottage here.

Little Bobbie Hollingsworth who broke his arm some time ago is much better at this writing.

NOKAY LAKE

We surely are enjoying the nice weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Swenson and daughter Irene were visitors at Andrew Anderson's Monday evening.

Miss Esther Swelland of Brainerd spent Saturday night and Sunday with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bordwell visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Johnson Sunday.

WEST FORT RIPLEY

Alfred Ausland is a very busy man around this locality cutting and clearing away all brush along the roads here.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Alger of Motley are visiting at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Austin.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the house warming party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milner. Old fashioned music was played and a tasty lunch served. All left in a happy mood.

Haying being practically over, harvesting is in full swing here with most grains damaged during this last heat wave with the exception of corn which is very good for this dry weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stroming drove to Grey Eagle Sunday afternoon to attend services there by Rev. Trager who conducted Lutheran services at Fort Ripley for the past five years before accepting the call to Grey Eagle.

A band of wandering gypsies were kept right on wandering when they stopped at Fort Ripley. They tried to do some mischief and petty thievery and when caught were compelled to return the articles and were told to leave town.

Miss Edna Adams of St. Paul, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Carl Stroming for several weeks, has returned to her home at St. Paul.

The last game between Fort Ripley and Clough Town surely was a scoring affair. The score was 32 to 4 in favor of Fort Ripley.

Charles Lightner is overhauling his equipment and preparing for threshing which should begin in about one week.

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE TO KEEP ANY GOOD MAN DOWN

STARTED THE SEASON HITTING AT 350 THE FIRST THREE WEEKS

GROWS ACCUSTOMED TO NEW BALL, NOW CANDIDATE FOR LEAGUE HITTING

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, July 22.—(U.P.)—You just can't keep a good man down!

Take Frank O'Doul—Lefty to you—for example. He was hitting something like 250 for the first three weeks of the season and there were those who said that O'Doul's reign as one of the leading hitters in the National League was to be curtailed by the new ball.

And until three weeks ago it appeared as if the prophets of the grandstand were correct. But since that time O'Doul has demonstrated that he still is in the running for the 1931 National League batting honors.

It was O'Doul's batting that gave Brooklyn a 4 to 3 victory over Chicago yesterday. The fleet outfielder rapped out three hits in four times at bat, knocking in three of the Robins' tallies. It marked Brooklyn's third victory in its four-game series against the Cubs.

The Robins failed to pick up any ground in the pennant race, however, for St. Louis defeated New York, 8 to 5, to retain its leadership of its games. The Cardinals knocked Fred Fitzsimmons from the mound in the fourth inning and continued their assault on Bill Walker.

No other National League games were played. The Boston-Pittsburgh contest was postponed because of rain while Philadelphia and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Philadelphia increased its leadership in the American League to eight games by defeating the Chicago White Sox 10 to 5 while the second place Washington Senators lost to Detroit, 4 to 3. Waite Hoyt registered his fourth consecutive triumph for the Athletics in turning back the White Sox and aided his own cause with three hits in as many times at bat.

Hayworth's triple, scoring Koenig who had singled, gave the Tigers the winning run over Washington in the ninth inning. The Tigers had hit Fisher and Hadley hard but 14 of them were left stranded on the bases.

Boston defeated Cleveland, 3 to 2, in 10 innings in the other American League contest. Miller's single in the ninth inning brought about the downfall of Wesley Ferrell, the Indians' no-hit, no-run artist.

The other scheduled contest in the American League, between New York and St. Louis was postponed because of rain.

S. S. AND N. E. ARE READY FOR BIG GAME

Southside and Northeast were all set today for their game here tomorrow evening. A fast battle is assured as both teams will fight to keep in the race for the championship tilt.

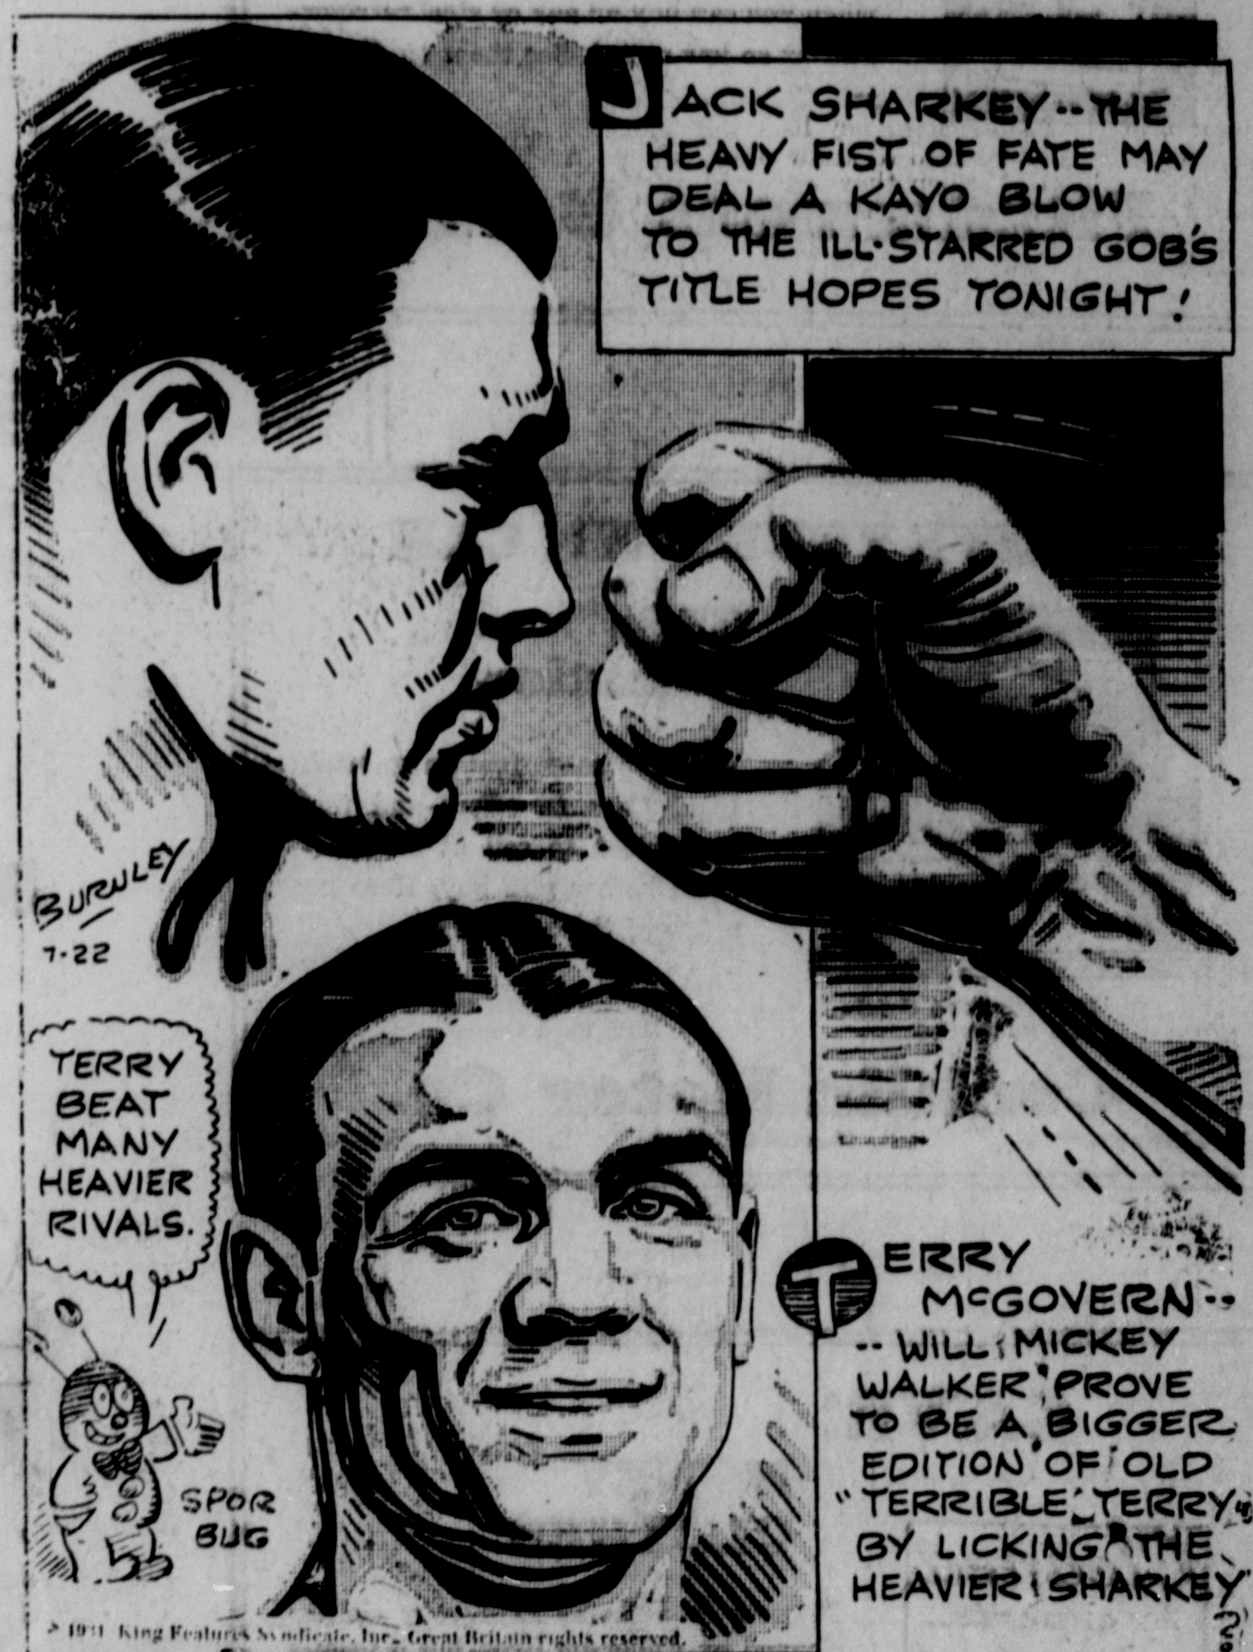

Franks and Roffidal will do battery duty for Southside while Jarboe and Bedal will work for Northeast.

Jack a Dwarf Killer?

By HARDIN BURNLEY

WEATHER permitting, Jack Sharkey, U. S. heavyweight champion, will defend his title against the much lighter Mickey Walker in the annual Milk Fund boxing show scheduled for fifteen rounds in Brooklyn, N. Y., tonight. Barred by court order on a contract suit from engaging Primo Carnera until after September 1930, Sharkey's role has been changed from that of a giant killer to that of a dwarf.

Walker's comparative dwarfism when sized up with Italy's Mobile Mountain or that growing Boston Bear, Mickey and his many friends are not in the least scared because of that. They point out that Walker has been famed as the bulldog of the ring for about ten years and that such a canine often beats a bear in desperate action.

And ferocious fighting is what the fans should see tonight at Ebbetts Field. Bulldog vs. Bear battling for future glory with practical oblivion the penalty of defeat!

The Boston Bruin again is facing the jinx that has thus far thwarted his championship drives. Unless he whips Walker decisively, he'll lose the chance of a return bout with Champion Max Baer.

Generally recognized as the best heavy in America (if not in the world) for several years, Sharkey, like W. L. Stribling, has just dubbed his big chances. He had Dempsey teetering several times in their 1927 bout but dropped his guard to argue with the referee over low punches and "Iron Mike" then flattened him for the count.

He again was aiming for a bout with Gene Tunney in 1928 when he let Johnny Risko take the play from him in a 10-rounder and lost the decision. He just did manage to outpoint K. O. Christner and Stribling in 1929, but did kayo Tommy Loughran quickly that year. While stopping Phil Scott in 1930, he barely escaped losing through wild low punches. He was giving Schmeling a real boxing lesson a little more than a year ago when Max got in the way of a low punch and became champion on that foul.

Sharkey has not fought since June 1930 and training is irksome. By stopping Walker in jig time, public demand may substitute Sharkey for Primo Carnera against Schmeling in September. But if he loses, or wins in poor style, it will be curtains for Sharkey sure. Copyright, 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HANDSOME SHARKEY HAS FEW MARKS TO SHOW FOR HIS MANY BATTLES

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 22.—If Edward Patrick Walker—sometimes called Mickey—tonight the last of what might be called the "Old Guard" will have been rubbed off the boxing landscape.

For Mickey, even though he just turned 30 a few days ago, is the last surviving link between the present and those good old days when champions were champions and had enough color to paint a two-story house.

If you don't think Mickey is an old-timer at 30 take a look at the men who were champions when Mickey ascended the welterweight throne in 1922.

Jack Dempsey was in his prime and ruled the heavyweight division with his weaving, bobbing crouch and a left hand that exploded like a depth bomb. Battling Siki, who later was to die in a gutter with a knife, hit deep in his back, was the light heavyweight boss. The coal black Senegalese fairly dripped color, whether sliding along the ropes or strutting the streets with his pet leopard cub.

Johnny Wilson was the middleweight ace, while the junior welterweight group was watched over by Pinkie Mitchell. Both these men long ago hung up their gloves.

The greatest of all the lightweights, cunning, shifty and hitting Benny Leonard had not yet thought of retiring, while Johnny Dundee, one of the ring's new genuine "iron men" was on top of the junior lightweight heap. Johnny Kilbane, featherweight, Joe Lynch, bantamweight, and Pancho Villa, flyweight, who died as he lived, by the ring, completed the list of champions when Walker first reached the top.

Contrast the champions of today—Schmeling, Rosenbloom, Thompson, Canzoneri, Battalio and the rest—with those boys of 1922 and then say Walker has no right to boast of the "good old days."

Walker's "ancestry," however, will not win for him tonight. The Mick is a brawling, hell-to-leather sort of fighter, with a heart as big as a grandfather's clock, but no fighter alive is going to spot the Sharkey man some 30 pounds in weight, and many inches in height and reach and beat him. That's out on a limb and we'll sit on it.

The two fighters, by the way, are as different types as any two scrappers you can name offhand. Walker, battle-browed, underslung, thick-lipped, pug-nosed and with a neck like the trunk of a redwood, looks like what the novelists would have us believe all fighters look. Mickey likes his fun straight and is not particular where he finds it.

Sharkey, handsome, and looking like nothing so much as he does a well-to-do business man (that's exactly what he is) has few marks to show for his many battles. The former sailor is strictly a family man and while the echo of the final bell rings in the rafters is off for Boston and his home. There he stays until the next fight.

Tonight's bout is the first "American heavyweight championship" fight since boxing gloves were introduced as a substitute for bare knuckles. Way back in 1880 one Paddy Ryan became the first American to hold the world's title by knocking out Joe Goss of England in the 87th round of a knuckle-to-knuckle engagement. Since that time the heavyweight crown stayed in this country until Max Schmeling.

Schmeling's triumph forced the promoters to invent the "American championship" gag to draw the customers through the gate.

OBSOLETE JAPANESE AMATEUR ASTRONOMER DISCOVERS A COMET

Pasadena, Calif., July 22.—(U.P.)—An obscure, amateur Japanese astronomer, M. Nagata, of Brawley, Calif., has discovered a new comet in the heavens. It was announced today at the Mt. Wilson observatory.

The comet was described to be in the constellation of Leo, not far from the star Rho Leonis, and in the general direction of Mars, although about ten degrees to the right of that planet.

The comet will be named after Nagata, who called it to the attention of the Mt. Wilson scientists in an apologetic telegram in which he begged pardon for wasting their time but asked if it was possible for him to have located a new comet with his small telescope.

Let Contracts for Camp Arsenal by Monday

St. Paul, July 22.—(U.P.)—Contracts for the arsenal at Camp Ripley, near Little Falls, probably will be let by Monday, Adjutant General E. A. Walsh said today. Bids were received yesterday from 15 general contractors, seven plumbing and heating firms and four electrical companies.

Can Bambino Hold Home Run Throne?

BABE RUTH CHUCK KLEIN LOU GEHRIG

If there's one thing that a baseball fan loves more than another, it is to see a ball get smacked straight on the nose and sent for a non-stop hop right out of the park. That is one of the big reasons for Babe Ruth's immense popularity. But this season the Bambino isn't having things all his own way. He is being hard pressed for the fence-busting honors. At the time of writing, Gehrig, his teammate of the Yankees, is leading him in circuit wallops, as is Chuck Klein, of the Phillies. Jimmy Foxx, of Connie Mack's Athletics, is also in the race, an opponent not to be lightly dismissed, while Averill, of the Cleveland Indians, gives indications that he is due to be heard from. Times are hard for kings and even Kings of Swat have their ups and downs.

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE TO KEEP ANY GOOD MAN DOWN

STARTED THE SEASON HITTING AT .350 THE FIRST THREE WEEKS

GROWS ACCUSTOMED TO NEW BALL NOW CANDIDATE FOR LEAGUE HITTING

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 22.—(U.P.)—You just can't keep a good man down!

Take Frank O'Doul—Lefty to you—for example. He was hitting something like .350 for the first three weeks of the season and there were those who said that O'Doul's reign as one of the leading hitters in the National League was to be curtailed by the new ball.

And until three weeks ago it appeared as if the prophets of the grandstand were correct. But since that time O'Doul has demonstrated that he still is in the running for the 1931 National League batting honors.

It was O'Doul's batting that gave Brooklyn a 4 to 3 victory over Chicago yesterday. The fleet outfielder ripped out three hits in four times at bat, knocking in three of the Robins' tallies. It marked Brooklyn's third victory in its four-game series against the Cubs.

The Robins failed to pick up any ground in the pennant race, however, for St. Louis defeated New York, 8 to 5, to retain its leadership of six games. The Cardinals knocked Fred Fitzsimmons from the mound in the fourth inning and continued their assault on Bill Walker.

No other National League games were played. The Boston-Pittsburgh contest was postponed because of rain while Philadelphia and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Philadelphia increased its leadership in the American League to eight games by defeating the Chicago White Sox 10 to 5 while the second place Washington Senators lost to Detroit, 4 to 3.

Waite Hoyt registered his fourth consecutive triumph for the Athletics in turning back the White Sox and aided his own cause with three hits in as many times at bat.

Hayworth's triple, scoring Koenig who had singled, gave the Tigers the winning run over Washington in the ninth inning. The Tigers had hit Fisher and Hadley hard but 14 of them were left stranded on the bases.

Boston defeated Cleveland, 3 to 2, in 10 innings in the other American League contest. Miller's single in the ninth inning brought about the downfall of Wesley Ferrell, the Indians' no-hit, no-run artist.

The other scheduled contest in the American League, between New York and St. Louis was postponed because of rain.

Jack a Dwarf Killer?

By HARDIN BURNLEY

JACK SHARKEY--THE HEAVY FIST OF FATE MAY DEAL A KAYO BLOW TO THE ILL-STARRED GOB'S TITLE HOPES TONIGHT!

TERRY BEAT MANY HEAVIER RIVALS.

TERRY MCGOVERN--WILL MICKEY WALKER PROVE TO BE A BIGGER EDITION OF OLD "TERRIBLE" TERRY BY LICKING THE HEAVIER SHARKEY?

WEATHER permitting, Jack Sharkey, U. S. heavyweight champion, will defend that title against the much lighter Mickey Walker in the annual Milk Fund boxing show scheduled for fifteen rounds in Brooklyn, N. Y., tonight. Barred by court order on a contract suit from engaging Primo Carnera until after September 1930, Sharkey's role has been changed from that of a giant killer to that of a "well" Walker's a comparative dwarf when sized up with Italy's Mobile Mountain or that growing Boston Bear, Mickey, and his many friends are not in the least scared because of that. They point out that Walker has been famed as the bulldog of the ring for about ten years and that such a canine often beats a bear in desperate action.

And ferocious fighting is what the fans should see tonight at Ebbetts Field. Bulldog vs. Bear battling for future glory with practical oblivion the penalty of defeat!

The Boston Bruin again is facing the jinx that has thus far thwarted his championship drives. Unless he whips Walker decisively, he'll lose the chance of a return bout with Champion Max Schmeling. Generally recognized as the best heavy in America (if not in the world) for several years, Sharkey, like W. L. Stribling, has just dubbed his big chances. He had Dempsey teetering several times in their 1927 bout but dropped his guard to argue with the referee over low punches and "Iron Mike" then flattened him for the count. He again was aiming for a bout with Gene Tunney in 1928 when he let Johnny Risko take the play from him in a 10-rounder and lost the decision. He just did manage to outpoint K. O. Christner and Stribling in 1929, but did kayo Tommy Loughran quickly that year. While stopping Phil Scott in 1930, he barely escaped losing through wild low punches. He was giving Schmeling a real boxing lesson a little more than a year ago when Max got in the way of a low punch and became champion on that foul.

Sharkey has not fought since June 1930 and training is irksome. By stopping Walker in jig time, public demand may substitute Sharkey for Primo Carnera against Schmeling in September. But if he loses, or wins in poor style, it will be curtains for Sharkey sure. Copyright, 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MERRIFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ludlow and family of Brainerd spent Monday at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pratt and family left Thursday for the northern part of Minnesota blue-berrying.

The Merrifield ladies club are holding a food and clothing sale at the Merrifield school house Saturday, July 25. Following in the evening there will be a dance, good music. Every one invited to attend.

Merrifield and Brainerd played a ball game here Sunday. Merrifield losing by a few scores.

The dance given at Bolin's Ranch was not very well attended last Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Olsen of St. Paul spent the week end at their cottage here.

Little Bobbie Hollingsworth who broke his arm some time ago is much better at this writing.

2 INDIANS WERE HANGED HERE 59 YRS. AGO TODAY

L. P. Johnson, Retired Railroad Man,
Recalls Excitement That
Stirred the Town

SOLDIERS CALLED HERE

One Indian Killed by Gunfire as He
Tries to Save Himself by
Grabbing Branches

Yes, sir—there was plenty of excitement in Brainerd 59 years ago today—that was the day that the two Indians were hanged from the big Norway pine near the old Last Turn saloon, corner of Front and Fourth streets, that is now being torn down.

The while affair was recalled this morning by L. P. Johnson, retired railroad veteran. The event stands out very clearly in the mind of Mr. Johnson as he had only been in Brainerd four days, coming to this city on July 18, 1872.

Mr. Johnson remembers distinctly of coming down town 59 years ago this morning to find the town seething with excitement and the two lifeless bodies of the murdered Indians still hanging from the tree.

The Indians were hanged after a squaw confessed their part in the murder of a Miss McArthur whose body was found near Crow Wing.

According to Mr. Johnson the people of Brainerd were quite worried that morning at what had been done as there were almost as many Indians as there were white people in this vicinity 59 years ago. Soldiers were sent for to quell any Indian outbreak that might occur as an aftermath to the shooting. The soldiers came and remained here for a week but no outbreak occurred.

Mr. Johnson states that one of the Indians attempted to grab hold of the branches to save himself as he was being hanged but that he was killed by shots from the guns of those conducting the hanging and the lifeless body was allowed to hang from the tree beside that of his unfortunate mate.

A number of pictures were taken of the dead Indians as they hung from the tree but none of the pictures can be found now.

An effort was made to discover just who hanged the Indians but the attempt failed. Several men from Duluth were blamed for the crime but the guilt was never definitely pinned on them.

At that time Brainerd was a comparatively small community. Mr. Johnson recalls that what are now some of our busiest streets were nothing but pine woods then.

The town was largely made up of saloons, a few grocery stores and several hotels. At that time the Mahlum hotel stood on the corner of what is now Eighth and Laurel streets on the site now occupied by Fitzsimmons and Sons and there was another hostelry known as the Scandinavian hotel on the site of the present National hotel on Laurel street. At that time Brainerd was a town of about 500 people.

STAPLES MAN IS INSTANTLY KILLED

Ted Enke, Former Hotel Man in Accident Near Motel

Ted Enke, of Staples, formerly proprietor of the St. Charles hotel there, was almost instantly killed at 2 p. m. today two miles south of Motley on highway No. 37.

Enke was a passenger in a Chrysler 70 driven by a Minneapolis man. In passing another car the car skidded and Enke is said to have leaped from the automobile. The running board struck him on the chest.

Enke was about 45 years old, and leaves wife and two children.

The driver of the car was Milton Aldem, formerly of Minneapolis and now of St. Cloud. He sells fur coats for a Minneapolis house. Aldem stuck to the car as it overturned and was unhurt.

BLAME JOYRIDERS IN THEFT OF CAR

Police looked through side streets in Brainerd today in an attempt to locate the car of J. H. Martin, Whitefish Lake, stolen from Front street between 4th and Fifth streets last evening.

Joyriders are believed to have taken it and later deserted it.

The stolen car is a Chevrolet coupe with the license number: Minn. 152-590.

20 MEN GET SUMMER MAINS EMPLOYMENT

Henry Roberts Supervises Laying of
Six Inch Water Main in Southeast Brainerd

OTHER WORK CONTEMPLATED

At Close of Laurel Street Improvement
Men Will Work on Lum
Park Lane

Twenty Brainerd men appeared certain today to have steady employment in the City Water and Light Department's water main extension work expected to continue into the fall.

Henry Roberts, superintendent of the Water and Light Department, is supervising the work.

The men are now engaged in laying a six inch water main on Laurel street from 12th to 18th street. Later they will be employed in laying the main on 18th street from Laurel to Norwood street. The new main replaces a smaller one and serves approximately 60 homes. This work will continue for about a month. At that time the Water and Light Department contemplates the laying of a six inch water main from 18th avenue and J street N. E. to Lum Park. This will be at least a month's work, Mr. Roberts said.

In another department of the utility, four electricians and one helper are stringing a 2300 volt power line from Second street N. to the paper mill grounds, replacing the O wire with CO wire.

This improved service benefits the northside and northeast Brainerd and will discontinue the line on Main street from First to Second streets. The work will last for two months.

TRAINEES QUOTA IS FILLED HERE

26 Out of 31 in County to Attend Ft.
Snelling From
Brainerd

Crow Wing county again fulfills its quota for the training camp at Ft. Snelling which will be held this year from July 30 to August 29.

Twenty-one hundred men from Minnesota between the ages of 17 and 24 will take advantage of the training period offered by the government. Thirty one applicants are listed from Crow Wing county, 26 of that number being from Brainerd.

Third year students are George Irvine, Walter Hill and Arthur Brown. Second year students are Harold Anderson, Lytle Anderson, Whitford Asplund, Robert Brown, John Dahl, Samuel Heller, Wm. Lake, Maurice Larson, Albert Woodson, Howard Haas, Wm. Herrmann and Harry Oseil. Basic or first year men to apply are Howard Anderson, Ralph Flansburg, Robt. Graham, Wilson Hall, Daniel Heller, Irwin Herrmann, Eino Kangas, Ernest Erickson, Donald Anderson, Geo. Perla and Robt. Harris.

A committee of the local American Legion post has been responsible for the success of getting this community's quota to the camp the last two years. Dr. G. I. Bodeaux and Dr. C. E. Anderson have given their services by making a physical examination of each student.

The local committee urges all Brainerd applicants to go to Ft. Snelling one day ahead of time, which will be next week, Wednesday, giving them the advantage to outfit themselves early and having a day to do as they wish.

14 MEN ON PAYROLL IN BUILDING PLANT

Excavation Work Now Underway;
Actual Construction to Start
Next Week

Men Working Nine Hours Daily on
Scale Wages; Completion
Expected in October

Excavation work of Brainerd's new $35,000 filtration plant near Central Station was underway today with 14 men employed.

Concrete work of the plant destined to eliminate manganese from the city's water supply will start next week, W. D. McKay, secretary of the Water and Light Department announced today.

Construction work will be under the direction of J. E. Jackson and will be by day labor. Only Brainerd men will be employed.

A nine hour day will be in effect. Laborers receive 50 cents an hour. Carpenters, cement and brick men will receive scale wages, Mr. McKay said.

The plant is expected to be ready for operation in October.

LIVESTOCK BURNED IN BLIND LAKE BARN FIRE

Mark Westfall, Blind Lake farmer, contemplated today the construction of a barn to replace the one burned on his farm Saturday night.

Lightning struck the structure. Seven head of sheep, one calf and 20 tons of hay were destroyed by the flames which consumed the building.

2 INDIANS WERE HANGED HERE 59 YRS. AGO TODAY

L. P. Johnson, Retired Railroad Man,
Recalls Excitement That
Stirred the Town

SOLDIERS CALLED HERE

One Indian Killed by Gunfire as He
Tries to Save Himself by
Grabbing Branches

Yes, sir—there was plenty of excitement in Brainerd 59 years ago today—was the day that the two Indians were hanged from the big Norway pine near the old Last Turn saloon, corner of Front and Fourth streets, that is now being torn down.

The while affair was recalled this morning by L. P. Johnson, retired railroad veteran. The event stands out very clearly in the mind of Mr. Johnson as he had only been in Brainerd four days, coming to this city on July 18, 1872.

Mr. Johnson remembers distinctly of coming down town 59 years ago this morning to find the town seething with excitement and the two lifeless bodies of the murdered Indians still hanging from the tree.

The Indians were hanged after a squaw confessed their part in the murder of a Miss McArthur whose body was found near Crow Wing.

According to Mr. Johnson the people of Brainerd were quite worried that morning at what had been done as there were almost as many Indians as there were white people in this vicinity 59 years ago. Soldiers were sent for to quell any Indian outbreak that might occur as an aftermath to the shooting. The soldiers came and remained here for a week but no outbreak occurred.

Mr. Johnson states that one of the Indians attempted to grab hold of the branches to save himself as he was being hanged but that he was killed by shots from the guns of those conducting the hanging and the lifeless body was allowed to hang from the tree beside that of his unfortunate mate.

A number of pictures were taken of the dead Indians as they hung from the tree but none of the pictures can be found now.

An effort was made to discover just who hanged the Indians but the attempt failed. Several men from Duluth were blamed for the crime but the guilt was never definitely pinned on them.

At that time Brainerd was a comparatively small community. Mr. Johnson recalls that what are now some of our busiest streets were nothing but pine woods then.

The town was largely made up of saloons, a few grocery stores and several hotels. At that time the Mahlum hotel stood on the corner of what is now Eighth and Laurel streets on the site now occupied by Fitzsimmons and Sons and there was another hostelry known as the Scandinavian hotel on the site of the present National hotel on Laurel street. At that time Brainerd was a town of about 500 people.

STAPLES MAN IS INSTANTLY KILLED

Ted Enke, Former Hotel Man in Accident Near
Mottley

Ted Enke, of Staples, formerly proprietor of the St. Charles hotel there, was almost instantly killed at 2 p. m. today two miles south of Mottley on highway No. 37.

Enke was a passenger in a Chrysler 70 driven by a Minneapolis man. In passing another car the car skidded and Enke is said to have leaped from the automobile. The running board struck him on the chest.

Enke was about 45 years old, and leaves wife and two children.

The driver of the car was Milton Aiden, formerly of Minneapolis and now of St. Cloud. He sells fur coats for a Minneapolis house. Aiden stuck to the car as it overturned and was unhurt.

BLAME JOYRIDERS IN THEFT OF CAR

Police looked through side streets in Brainerd today in an attempt to locate the car of J. H. Martin, Whitefish Lake, stolen from Front street between 4th and Fifth streets last evening.

Joyriders are believed to have taken it and later deserted it. The stolen car is a Chevrolet coupe with the license number: Minn. 152-590.

20 MEN GET SUMMER MAINS EMPLOYMENT

Henry Roberts Supervises Laying of
Six Inch Water Main in
Southeast Brainerd

OTHER WORK CONTEMPLATED

At Close of Laurel Street Improvement
Men Will Work on Lum
Park Line

Twenty Brainerd men appeared today to have steady employment in the City Water and Light Department's water main extension work expected to continue into the fall.

Henry Roberts, superintendent of the Water and Light Department, is supervising the work.

The men are now engaged in laying a six inch water main on Laurel street from 12th to 18th street. Later they will be employed in laying the main on 18th street from Laurel to Norwood street. The new main replaces a smaller one and serves approximately 80 homes. This work will continue for about a month. At that time the Water and Light Department contemplates the laying of a six inch water main from 13th avenue and J street N. E. to Lum Park. This will be at least a month's work, Mr. Roberts said.

In another department of the utility, four electricians and one helper are stringing a 2300 volt power line from Second street N. to the paper mill grounds, replacing the O wire with OO wire.

This improved service benefits the northside and northeast Brainerd and will discontinue the line on Main street from First to Second streets. The work will last for two months.

TRAINEES QUOTA IS FILLED HERE

26 Out of 31 in County to Attend Ft.
Snelling From
Brainerd

Crow Wing county again fulfills its quota for the training camp at Ft. Snelling which will be held this year from July 30 to August 29.

Twenty-one hundred men from Minnesota between the ages of 17 and 24 will take advantage of the training period offered by the government. Thirty one applicants are listed from Crow Wing county, 26 of that number being from Brainerd.

Third year students are George Irvine, Walter Hill and Arthur Brown. Second year students are Harold Anderson, Lytle Anderson, Wilfred Aspholm, Robert Brown, John Dahl, Saniuel Heller, Wm. Lake, Maurice Larson, Albert Wooden, Howard Hass, Wm. Herrmann and Harry Ossel. Basic or first year men to apply are Howard Anderson, Ralph Flansburg, Robt. Graham, Wilson Hall, Daniel Heller, Irwin Herrmann, Eino Kanges, Ernest Erickson, Donald Anderson, Geo. Perla and Robt. Harris.

A committee of the local American Legion post has been responsible for the success of getting this community's quota to the camp the last two years. Dr. G. I. Badeaux and Dr. C. E. Anderson have given their services by making a physical examination of each student.

The local committee urges all Brainerd applicants to go to Ft. Snelling one day ahead of time, which will be next week, Wednesday, giving them the advantage to outfit themselves early and having a day to do as they wish.

14 MEN ON PAYROLL IN BUILDING PLANT

Excavation Work Now Underway;
Actual Construction to Start
Next Week

Men Working Nine Hours Daily on
Scale Wages; Completion
Expected in October

Excavation work of Brainerd's new $35,000 filtration plant near Central Station was underway today with 14 men employed.

Concrete work of the plant destined to eliminate manganese from the city's water supply will start next week, W. D. McKay, secretary of the Water and Light Department announced today.

Construction work will be under the direction of J. E. Jackson and will be by day labor. Only Brainerd men will be employed.

A nine hour day will be in effect. Laborers receive 50 cents an hour. Carpenters, cement and brick men will receive scale wages, Mr. McKay said.

The plant is expected to be ready for operation in October.

LIVESTOCK BURNED IN BLIND LAKE BARN FIRE

Mark Westfall, Blind Lake farmer, contemplated today the construction of a barn to replace the one burned on his farm Saturday night.

Lightning struck the structure. Seven head of sheep, one calf and 20 tons of hay were destroyed by the flames which consumed the building.

LANDS PRIZE TROUT IN THIS VICINITY

Ralph Lukken, Brainerd, Returns With German Brown Trout Weighing 5 and 3-4 Pounds

We've been hearing all season about big crappies, big northern and wall-eyed pike—in fact lots of big fish of various kinds. But yesterday there was a prize German Brown trout on display in the Louis Hostager window on Front street. It weighed five and three-quarter pounds, and measured 28 inches in length.

The big trout was caught by Ralph Lukken, 205 Main street. Ralph says that the fish came from Buffalo creek just east of Barrows.

SEVEN-POWER CONFERENCE WILL AID GERMANY

question of supporting German credit and the importance of keeping short term credits in Germany. A general discussion ensued but, according to British sources, there was no acrimony, and it was decided to refer certain questions to the finance ministers' meeting at 3:30 P. M. today in hope that the conference might be ended tomorrow.

The ministers' recommendations were said to have included matter dealing with the question of extension of the present $100,000,000 credit which France proposes to extend for three months. There was also a recommendation regarding measures the central banks might take to maintain the present volume of short term credits for Germany, in accordance with the suggestion of the United States.

A Belgian source expressed the opinion that no progress had been made, and characterized the morning plenary meeting as "a milling about, searching for a formula."

The Belgians argued that the French proposal for a long term loan was the only worth-while plan, but that it had been abandoned, while the American short term plan was "superfluous" because the banks were already maintaining credits.

Stinson told the press the conference was making progress.

"It is not hopeless, but it may finish tomorrow," he said, adding that the situation was technical and difficult but that the discussions have been completely devoid of acrimonious issues.

An international bankers' conference is likely to follow the present conference of statesmen, it was indicated from an authoritative quarter today.

Berlin, July 22—Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius notified the foreign office today that they expected to leave London tomorrow night. It was taken as confirmation of reports that the seven-power meeting would terminate tomorrow.

TENSE MOMENT IN THRILLING DRAMA

Kay Francis and John St. Polis in one of the dramatic high spots of "Transgression," the feature attraction at the Palace theatre Thursday and Friday.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

SCATTERING volley of shots met the roaring car as the gunmen on the ground scattered again from before the spinning wheels of the Hispano-Suiza. A single shot smashed its way through the soft fabric of the right front tire. For an instant Talbot thought the car would turn turtle, but Gerry's expert hands fought the wheel and conquered it. A running man threw himself headlong out of the way just as the front bumper flicked his body. By the slightest twist of the wheel Gerry could have run him down. Instead, he turned the reeling car toward another who had stopped to fire.

When Seconds Count.

The sharp tac-tac-tac of a machine gun ripped through the noises of the night. But there was no time to see who was shooting. A man had leaped to the running board and was leveling an automatic straight at Talbot's face. Gerry shook the steering wheel. The car wobbled drunkenly but the man clung on. Instantly Talbot's hand dropped to the door handle, twisted it and threw his weight against the panel. It swung wide and flipped the man from the running board. The rear wheel missed him by scant fractions of an inch.

The Hispano-Suiza was dashing at and among the scattering gunmen like a rogue elephant running amuck, its single bright eye gleaming malignantly as it swirled here and there in response to Gerry's jerking hands on the wheel. Its two passengers could hear the snarling drone of Dave's airplane, but, for the moment, they had their own battle to fight. Their only hope lay in a swift, unceasing offensive.

"Look, Gerry!" shouted Talbot, pointing straight along the single beam of the headlight.

There, emerging from the tunnel-like road in the jungle, was an ancient Ford, bumping and reeling as it forged slowly ahead over the rough ground. And emblazoned in the white glare from Gerry's headlights were two girls and a jet-black negress. Despite the maelstrom of noise, shots and confusion, the little car headed straight across the field, its rusty radiator pointed at the idling airplane before the open hangar door.

The Hispano-Suiza slewed around at full speed, racing toward the shabby little car which was already the target for half-a-dozen guns. Twenty yards away was a man who slowly, carefully, raised a double-barrelled shotgun and aimed it at the Ford. The thundering sport car cut him down in his tracks.

The Ford came to a shuddering stop. From the other side of the field came the hammering of the machine gun and the howl of the airplane's engine. The girls sat still in their car, not knowing what to do.

"Ah, the fools!" gasped Talbot, "the brave little fools!"

The Hispano-Suiza lurched around them in a whirl of dust. Gerry reached down and yanked at the emergency brake.

"Jump, Talbot!" he panted. "I've got to get Joan!"

Dave sat on the edge of his seat cushion as if by so doing he could help his thundering plane onward. The air speed meter on the instrument board indicated 150 miles an hour, but the carpet of trees below moved beneath the fuselage with heart-breaking slowness. Never had time dragged so!

A Big Chance.

He saw Gerry's car burst out into the open clearing and dash headlong at the line of running men who scattered, wheeled and blazed at it. He groaned involuntarily. If he could but nose down now and dive into that mess he could stop those men from shooting at Gerry and Talbot.

But there, straight ahead, was Joan, still on the box seat of the truck. The man, whose arm held her where she was, waved toward the idling amphibian at the hangar door. Dave saw a man leap into the boat-shaped cockpit of the waiting ship. The slowly revolving propeller churned over with ever-increasing speed. The heavy plane lumbered ahead to meet the truck.

Dave, in a frenzy of impatience, pushed against the stick, nosing his monoplane down into a headlong dive. The altimeter showed 180 miles an hour. Wind howled through wire and struts. The roar of the engine rose to an ear-stabbing whine. But still the ship seemed to be dragging along as if somehow anchored to the sky.

The man who was holding Joan looked back over his shoulder. He saw Dave's diving plane and rolled backward from his seat, landing on all fours on the bouncing platform behind the driver. He reached swiftly into the deep shadow beneath the seat. Then he stood erect and swung an odd-shaped, lumpy rifle to his shoulder.

Joan rose to her feet, twisted away from the driver's jurching grasp and threw herself to the ground. She fell and rolled over and over. The truck came to a sudden stop.

The odd-shaped rifle in the man's arms began to blink redly at the diving airplane. A neat pattern of black spots appeared in the wing, a dozen inches from Dave's head, as the sub-caliber machine gun spat out its dotted line of singing lead. And behind the blazing muzzle of the gun was Mueller's contorted face, fully visible in the glare of Gerry's headlight. The gang leader stood his ground while the plane roared down at him, holding his finger tight on the trigger, spraying lead from his vibrating weapon like water from a garden hose.

The Score Evened.

Dave, staring grimly ahead, heard the bullets crack past, heard, too, the snapping impact of lead against wood and fabric. He was sharply conscious of that swarthy face behind the gun and of the need of reaching it before these bullets probed their way through and through his own body. He adjusted his control stick and pedals with meticulous care. He must not miss. A little higher, now. Not too much back, I told him. The plane, whose tires had almost touched the ground, leaped high into the air. The right wheel swung up across the truck like a titanic pendulum. It seemed only to graze Mueller's tense body in passing, but the man was swept away in a long parabola, turning over and over in the air before he crashed to the ground. He rolled for several feet, as limp as a rag doll thrown away by a petulant child. Then he lay very still.

At the top of his zoom Dave looked over the splintered edge of his cockpit. Gerry's car was dashing back and forth on the other end of the field as if a crazy man were at its wheel. It was a swift, sleek Car of Juggernaut. He saw it cut down one man and turn after a second.

question of supporting German credit and the importance of keeping short term credits in Germany. A general discussion ensued but, according to British sources, there was no acrimony, and it was decided to refer certain questions to the finance ministers' meeting at 3:30 P. M. today in hope that the conference might be ended tomorrow.

The ministers' recommendations were said to have included matter dealing with the question of extension of the present $100,000,000 credit which France proposes to extend for three months. There was also a recommendation regarding measures the central banks might take to maintain the present volume of short term credits for Germany, in accordance with the suggestion of the United States.

A Belgian source expressed the opinion that no progress had been made, and characterized the morning plenary meeting as "a milling about, searching for a formula."

The Belgians argued that the French proposal for a long term loan was the only worth-while plan, but that it had been abandoned, while the American short term plan was "superfluous" because the banks were already maintaining credits.

Stinson told the press the conference was making progress.

"It is not hopeless, but it may finish tomorrow," he said, adding that the situation was technical and difficult but that the discussions have been completely devoid of acrimonious issues.

An international bankers' conference is likely to follow the present conference of statesmen, it was indicated from an authoritative quarter today.

Berlin, July 22—Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius notified the foreign office today that they expected to leave London tomorrow night. It was taken as confirmation of reports that the seven-power meeting would terminate tomorrow.
